

RESIDENCY TRAINING PROGRAM

SURGERY

The Residency Training Program has four slots per year. It provides residents with a broad experience in surgery, and makes them well-rounded with an excellent balance of clinical training, structured education and research opportunities. The main objective is to prepare the resident for a career in community surgical practice, research, academic surgery, or post-residency fellowship training. It also offers subspecialties in TCVS, plastic surgery, hepatobiliary and minimally invasive surgery.
